Section 8101 – “Publications” is the dissemination of any information, data, or compilation, whether confidential, by any method or media, including verbal, written, or electronic communications, including periodic or final reports required by a grantor.

Section 8102 (A) – This Chapter is civil in nature and shall apply within the jurisdiction of the Nation. It shall also be enforceable outside the jurisdiction of the Nation to the maximum extent permitted by law with respect to research conducted on the Nation’s Lands, research using materials as to which the Nation has a claim of ownership, or research that the Nation formally approved by resolution or by permit.

Section 8102 (C) – This Chapter shall apply to all research conducted within the Nation, whether involving human subjects or not, and all research regarding materials wherever located as to which the Nation has a claim of intellectual, cultural, or other ownership.

Section 8106 (7) - Acknowledgment by applicant that rights to license and publish material and information produced after permission is granted by the IRB shall be subject to IRB policies regarding publication. The Nation has a right to ownership of the work product created by the research or researcher. Works created for hire and copyrighted works transferred to the Tohono O’odham Nation shall be deemed to be the property of the Tohono O’odham Nation. Any permission to publish must be granted by the IRB prior to publication. The Tohono O’odham Nation reserves all rights not granted, including the right of review prior to publication. The IRB has sole authority to control publication of all research, disclosures, and findings.
